

In addition, media received from third-party carriers is logged and tracked in a SecureSync® portal, our online media management application, upon arrival. This gives you complete visibility and control over your offsite backup tapes, and enables you to rapidly search inventory to locate tapes needed for disaster recovery, legal discovery or any other purpose. And, should you need a tape for any reason, you can simply request the specific tape through the application to coordinate its delivery with the third-party courier of your choice.

ENSURING A COMPREHENSIVE, CONSISTENT MEDIA MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

Iron Mountain's MediaCare™ service gives you the confidence that, upon arrival, your media is treated with the high levels of care and security you've come to expect from Iron Mountain. The same highly trained professionals receive your media and store it following the same proven set of best practices we employ when vaulting backup tapes that arrive on one of our specialised vehicles.

Should you need this media to address any type of recovery situation, we'll be there to coordinate with your preferred courier and get your backup tapes to your chosen recovery location so you can quickly and effectively reestablish operations.

In this way, MediaCare™ helps you establish sound, secure and consistent media management processes that deliver high levels of control to all of the backup tapes you store in an Iron Mountain vault, regardless of their point of origin or delivery method.
